

FREAK ACCIDENT MAY PROVE FATAL

Night Operator at Power Plant
Gets Severe Static Shock.

LOSES POWER OF SPEECH
AND IS UNCONSCIOUS

Lying at Hospital in Condition
That Puzzles Attending Physicians.

Shock Most Severe.

Chamberlain is believed to be suffering from a static electric shock and subsequent fall. His head bears two extensive injuries. One appears to be a slight bruise, the other a laceration. It is thought he is believed to be suffering from internal injuries that may prove fatal.

The burn is thought to have been produced by an electric shock, and Chamberlain holds the opinion that Chamberlain got within the radius of a high

The belief that Chamberlain was hoarse about that time is based upon the hours records he kept of the power. Prince's 7 o'clock they were filled in with a fine clear hand. At that hour they became dim and uncertain and grew worse until they were hardly legible at 1 o'clock.

Chamberlain, however, worked out the shift and awakened his roommate, Milton Brinton, to relieve him shortly after 1 o'clock. Chamberlain could not tell of his relief at once detected that something was wrong. His illness was reported to the management, and, after noon, Chamberlain was transferred to the hospital for closer attention with having regained his speech to tell of the accident occurred.

Chamberlain is 22 years old and has been with the Mill Creek Power com-

DR. CALDERWOOD LOSES HIS HORSE AND BUGGY

The rig disappeared while the physician was preparing to make a call.

The horse is bay in color, weighs about 1100 pounds, and bears a white spot on its neck, caused by the rubbing of the collar. The vehicle is a tuggy. In it were a plush rug and horse blanket, black on one side and green on the other.

POLICE TO DRILL BUMS

FROM CITY IN SPRING

"Drill, ye loafers, drill."
This will be the order of Chief Police Thomas D. Pitt will issue

the loafers in Salt Lake as soon as the weather becomes a little warmer. With the first real hint of spring in the atmosphere, Chief Pitt will instruct the patrolmen to drive the army of loafers that now invades and is in possession of the city from its bounds.

At the present the city is over-run with loafers. They may be found on every street corner and in most of the back streets and some of the alleys. A small percentage of them belongs to the criminal element, and their presence increases crime in that proportion.
